

DATA ANALYST (CONTRACT)

THE ROLE

This is a 1 year fixed term contract role within the Actuarial Reserving Team of a leading Lloyd's insurance company and will suit either a graduate with a relevant degree or someone who has completed their A-levels.

There is the opportunity for this role to become permanent, subject to a satisfactory review at the end of the contract.

Reserving describes the process undertaken by insurance companies to estimate the ultimate premium and claims costs of all the insurance policies that they have issued.

This role is to assist the team in the calculation, analysis and reporting of reserving estimates

No actuarial study support will be given. Other career paths within Reserving or the wider business may be explored if the role becomes permanent.
